I. Call to Order

Mayor Ferrini called the work session to order at 6:30 p.m.

II. Introduction

Mayor Ferrini welcomed the School Board, School Staff, City Staff and City Council. He said he and the Council appreciates the hard work that has been done to this point. He said the Council understands this is a difficult time and a difficult endeavor for everybody. He turned the meeting over to Superintendent of Schools, Edward McDonough.

III. Presentation – Edward McDonough, Superintendent of Schools; Mitchell Shuldman, School Board Chair

Edward McDonough thanked City Manager Bohenko and Judie Belanger, Finance Director for all the assistance hey provided the Administrative team along the way. He stated the mission of the Portsmouth School Department is to educate all students to the highest level. He stated he was going to speak briefly on the four themes that emerged either through the questions the Councilors asked or at the public hearing last Wednesday evening.

He said he would first like to touch on student/teacher ratios for pupil expenditures, talk a little on the district performance with the New England Assessment, the VCAP and share a bit of the work that the district has undertaken in order to develop some internal capabilities and get closer to realize our district mission.

Mr. McDonough showed a breakdown in the number of teachers that are in the general fund budget for FY10. He said the total is 251.7 full time equivalents. He said when you look more closely, you will notice that 189.6 or 74% are regular education teachers and 66 or 24% provide student support services. He said the enrollment for PK-12 this year is 2,646. He said if you take the total 251.7 into the number of professional staff we have the ratio is 10.5 to 1. He said what is also true is that if you look at the classroom average, 139 that have classrooms; the classroom average is 18.9 to 1. He said if you include all the unified arts programs (music, PE, health and technology education) the ratio comes down to 14.3 to 1.

Mr. McDonough said when crafting this budget it was very important to protect the instructional core as they did not want to adjust their ratio and classrooms and wants to continue at 18.9 to 1. He further stated he does not want to underestimate the importance of student support services.

Mr. McDonough stated they have some additional resources such as additional revenue sources that allows for program augmentation, tuitions, and fee revenue which allows them to have additional staff at the Robert J. Lister Academy equaling six full time equivalent teachers. He said we also have outside districts that send students to our programs that enable us to secure additional support for the schools. He stated was also receive considerable support through federal funds, particularly in the areas of title one and special education.

Mr. McDonough said the key is to strike a balance between classroom instruction and student support necessary for us to be successful in achieving our mission.

Mr. McDonough said the next area for discussion is per pupil cost. He said it is safe to say every state has its own formula. He believes it is largely an attempt to discern the unit cost to educate a child in a particular district. He said each district will use this fee in order to determine what would be the charge, at a peculiar level, for outside students coming into the district. He said New Hampshire formula equals all expenditures from any source (local, State or Federal) then subtracts out the tuition, transportation costs and food services costs. He said this total is divided by the average daily membership. He said this figure is used for a number of purposes. Edward McDonough stated the cost per pupil in 2008-2009 was $14,194. He said there are 48 districts that have been figured using PK – 12 just as Portsmouth is. He said Portsmouth is ranked 11th out of the 48 schools. He said the size of the district determines per pupil spending. He said he also did a per pupil cost analysis for the secondary school level against the eight top High Schools in the State and with the exception of one school we are getting high levels of achievement for a lesser expenditure per pupil.

Mr. McDonough talked about the district performance in light of the (North East Com Assessment and our status in relation to adequately yearly progress under the Federal "No Child Left Behind" law. He said since 2001 performance targets have been increasing and in 2013-2014 the expectation is that we will have to have 100% proficiency with all students across the country. He said the law expects that schools not only meet the target that they set, whole school, but they also expect the school to meet it in the nine groups and sub-categories in both reading and math. He said there are 18 criteria a school has to meet. He said if you fail to meet any one of those categories you are deemed under the law to not have made adequate yearly progress. Mr. McDonough said there are a couple areas where there is an achievement gap. He said these gaps are in the economically disadvantaged subgroups as well as in the educationally disability groups. He said this is why we need the critical supports to ensure that all students are meeting the standard.

Mr. McDonough said when you look at our overall performance by school, by grade level, he believes they are achieving and serving children in the district well. He said 68% of schools across the State did not make adequate yearly progress. He said this is just notice to them that they need to go back and pay attention to those sub-groups.

Mr. McDonough stated the School Board has established a goal that teacher teams at grade level of the Department will look at student performance data and if a student is not performing at the expected level, set a goal for that student, monitor the student’s performance, and collaborate together to develop interventions to ensure all students are learning and as a district are committed to building that kind of a system.

Mr. McDonough went over the goals for each school and how they are progressing within those goals. He stated he believes the proposed budget allows Portsmouth to keep the good work of the district moving forward.

Mr. McDonough thanked the Council and City Staff for their attention this evening.
